

This Sacrificial liner / underlay film is designed to assist people when laminating, using a wide format laminator. One of the main issues people face when using a wide format laminator is “webbing” the laminator. The term “webbing” means loading the roll of laminate and vinyl on the laminator. Once the laminate and vinyl are on the laminator, people can experience issues with the laminate sticking to the bottom roller or they may have not lined up the vinyl correctly resulting in adhesive sticking to the rollers. Sacrificial liner is a very thin material so it is easy to dispose of, we recommend that anyone new to laminating or anyone providing custom size prints laminated, should try using sacrificial.

Product Information

Construction Options:	BOPP, PET or Paper
Main Application:	Help protect against creasing, tearing & sticking.
Usage:	Sacrificial liner/underlay
Core:	76mm

Advantages: If by chance the Bopp or Pet liners do happen to crease, the crease will not transfer to the surface of the image as it can with paper. Almost 1/2 the price of standard underlay paper. Less bulk waste disposal. Bopp will not have the static issues experienced with PET.
